I have a question about the "connecting" of layers within a dynamic selection. I have 5 layers with different opacities/transparency. When I select a rectangle in layer 1, how can I connect layer 2 and 3 together so they have one pixel opacity while layer 1 and 4 are 100% opaque? A: Like I wrote in the comments, what you can do is: Add layers Select the first one, use a Mask (at least I found this idea on another blog) Select the rectangle Use the Convert to Smart Object Layer to convert it to a Smart Object Go to Vector>Paths>Object to Path and hit OK, result is a new Smart Object Path Now use the mask again to fill the big rectangle Result: The Legend of Zelda: Breath of the Wild is so huge that it's probably better to think of it as several games, rather than one. It took about seven years to make the game. Now it's launching on March 3. Our review is strong on words like strong, deep, and complex, but makes our opinion clear on how it compares to other open world titles like Skyrim and Grand Theft Auto 5. It
